Subject: Our conversation today

Dear Maria,

I know I mentioned talking today to go over the next step in fixing this situation and getting Todd help.

I have to admit based on all your previous actions, our phone conversation two years ago, everything I was told and everything I have found out, I really thought you knew. Since you are telling me that you didn't know what was going on and taking that at face value, I think you need a little more time to digest and deal with this information and talk to someone (Pastor Landon would be a really good call). As a man and based on my actions (I am taking the biggest risk as I have already been threatened by Todd), I am taking the necessary steps to make sure my nephew and sisters are protected in this situation and I am asking "if" you want to be involved in fixing this. Help, is defined as not continuing to enable or defend Todd and his actions but get him to make amends, into a 12 step program and realize that there are consequences for his actions (This will ensure this doesn't happen again and protect your family – I know I never entered into that equation, this isn't a complaint but a statement of fact based on your actions not words – the actions have been to write me off as expendable). I am focusing on fixing this because I do love my sisters (regardless of how they feel about me based on not knowing all the facts) and want to protect my nephew (I know by taking this action I am risking never getting to see him or have a real relationship with him the way I do my other nephew but it is a step I have to take – I take being an uncle very seriously) and will not let this situation go unchecked anymore (Regardless of the consequences to me). By this action, I am risking my inheritance from my grandmother (This should show I am not doing this based on money) and I am more concerned with establishing healthy boundaries for Todd regarding the “family” and letting him know there are consequences for violating the trust given a father and grandfather. Whether the father cares about that family member or not is not relevant, certain lines should never be crossed (Again, Actions).

Please don't take my giving you more time to process this as anything less than knowing the hell you are going through (If you really didn't know) as I have been living with this for a long time. Because I love my sisters, I tried to bury this at great personal sacrifice both financially and emotionally by walking away. There is nothing quite like your father thinking of you as an expendable prostitute, who steals from you, uses you as a beard for his hooker habit (among other things and for last 30 years (Since the custody battle in his words – Again Actions) has had this plan (He knew what his actions were doing to me). To be blunt, considering the small amount (From the strong push back on this I have a feeling the amount is bigger and I know there have been financial issues with Brookside that you guys have been dealing with for years – I know Lampasas has been supporting you), had I been asked, I would have written you guys a check just to skip the nightmares. The hard costs to me for just handling the nightmares, I had to find three specialist for this and Sarah had wake up ever night for a year with me screaming at the top of my lungs and swinging my fists trying to defend myself came to about 10 grand. She is a saint for putting up with it and helping me get help instead of continuing to ignore it. The spiritual cost to my soul is you can't put a price on. I consider the hell I have been through my personal penance for allowing myself to be sucked into helping him but I am done with that now as I have to focus on fixing this. While you and Todd haven't asked me how this has affected me, but immediately went into the effect on you, I thought you should know what I have been through. I am trying to spare Madison and Lisa this feeling as no amount of money can make it right. I am going to do everything I can to spare them what I went through short of direct lying, enabling or defending Todd's behavior.

I flew not once but twice to Oklahoma to go to the ranch and pray by Grandma's grave, asking for guidance for what to do on this one. Further, I have sought spiritual counseling to make amends for my part in it and I get down on my knees every day and ask for God's forgiveness for my part in it. I live by a very simple philosophy, your actions and your words are the only thing you take with you from this world. I know from my experiences in the hospital (Dying twice and being in a coma for 28 days) that this philosophy holds up. I know you aren't concerned with my spiritual welfare but I am trying to show you my resolve in this matter and where I am coming from. I am coming to you to try enlist your help in this matter to set things straight but I have to be comfortable with the outcome or I will take the next step. The two things that kept me taking the next step without consulting you and giving you a chance to circle the wagon's (go to the girls and family directly and perform a "character assassination 101" on me – This did happen a little when I was debating confronting Todd two years ago – I saw the preview of this at both of grandma's funerals – luckily my mother backed up by your sister set the Oklahoma preacher straight, unfortunately at the Texas service I got to hear how I was never around from the pulpit at my grandmothers funeral – If he only knew “Why”).

I feel a responsibility in protecting my sisters and nephew from discovering the truth about their father/grandfather (This may be a mistake but I was happier when I thought he just didn't care about me – showing me who he really is was a bonus I didn't need) and I really like your family (Sisters, Brothers, Father, Mother, Cousins, Etc.) and I am trying to save them the embarrassment, hurt and shock from this one. They always showed me kindness and I miss them being in my life (However the actions taken by the “family” at this point have made my being around quite impossible). I am trying to put how I feel away and deal with the situation but as you can see in this email, it is difficult at times and that is why I understand your initial reaction to my email on Sunday. The decision on what you do is yours alone but I tell you in advance, things like “I am only going to talk about this once and then never discuss it again” are non-starters and enabling/manipulating behavior is only going to make me take the next step. Once Lisa and Madison are looped in, there are about 8 steps after (If you aren't on board there is no way they will have it in them to deal with this, however if we can't figure this out they will be given that choice) that and this situation must be dealt with. I don't want to share this pain but I will to fix this and ensure it never happens to my sisters, nephew or me again. I will not risk this not being addressed and being a part of any of the following things happening:

1. Todd pulls power trip behavior with another hooker by not paying her and then her or her pimp shoots him and dumps the body in a dumpster (This will make a great headline and destroy Madison, Lisa and my Nephew).
2. Todd decides to “bond” with my nephew (Please see what happened to me for results).
3. Todd spends all of the money grandma left her grandchildren (At any one of the numerous times grandma told us of her final wishes, the only thing Todd had to do was correct her, not only did he not do that but validated it on Thanksgiving in front of the entire family telling all of us “Think of all the money your making on Lampasas going to your grandkids and how happy they will be” Knowing what he had planned – This activity is much like him telling the hooker he was going to pay her, all the while knowing he wasn’t – He gets off on this behavior and it is dangerous and manifests itself in ways that hurt the family directly – The lines to not cross are fading for him because they are not being enforced – You have been enabling this one since the beginning and boundaries need to be set – your argument the girls are going to be very well taken care of isn’t appropriate as it ISNT YOUR MONEY BUT THEIRS and I don’t want to be part of enabling this shit anymore nor hear from them why didn’t you do something when he dies and the money is gone) on hookers. He literally was pricing out moving one of his “favorite” Chinese prostitutes to live in Texas as his girl friend (Approximate cost 120 grand a year). Maria, if you really didn’t know, WHERE is he getting the money to feed his habit.
4. Todd dying in a whore house and everyone finding out that way (Again headline). I am saving you a scandal and headline, more than you know.
5. The effect this all has on me, if I continue to let it go. As a man I am not going to risk the above and I will do whatever it takes to make sure it doesn’t happen. No one has shown they care about me to this point (Including myself, when it was just the money, I walked) but the situation has now changed and I am going to do what I feel is right to fix this no matter what the cost. My healing is doing everything I can to fix this disaster and by taking this action I am taking care of myself as well. Also, it is no longer acceptable to think of me as expendable in this situation. Thinking I am expendable or will go away is only going to make this bigger.

We can do this one on one or if you need spiritual guidance, I suggestion we reach out to Pastor Landon and have him help us. This will ensure you have someone to help guide you through this process. As long as Todd makes amends for his behavior (I have some ideas on this, some that may save his soul), and we get mechanisms in place to protect the girls, my nephew, the women and me this will go no further (This is something we need to figure out but I have done a lot of research). Let's try and talk in the afternoon (12pm PST) on Saturday and work this out if possible.

If you don't want to be involved, I understand and I will take the next step.

Sincerely,
